

ABSTRACT

[0023] The invention relates to a water play pump comprising a housing with a housing wall which is embodied as a filter through which the water in the housing flows; also comprising a first outlet through which the water from the housing can be pumped. An additional filter element is detachably arranged on the housing (1).